DYNAMITE CROWE.

HIS COLLEGE FOR TRAINING YOUNG MEN IN INFERNAL SCIENCE.

A Munchausen - Quixotte - Furioso Schemo.

PEORIA, Ill., July 31.—Crowe, of dynamite fame, has returned from Chicago, where it is reported that a convention was held last week attended by a number of prominent Irish Americans from different parts of the country, including Major Horrigan, New York; Patrick Collins, Boston; and a delegation from the Pacific coast. It is learned that an arrangement was made for the establishment of a factory for the manufacture of bombs and other explosives, to be used by the Crowe-Rossa faction in their war against England. This institution will contain a chemical laboratory on the Hudson River above New York, owned and operated by a joint stock company with a capital of $200,000, divided into 40,000 shares of $5 each. It is organized under the laws of New York, and known as the "Mausonitor Chemical Experimental and Manufacturers' Company." A general business is conducted by the directors elected annually by stockholders, having President, Secretary, and General Superintendent. The latter is Prof. Messenoff, a Russian chemist, of high standing. The principal business of the concern is not so much in manufacturing explosives as training young men in the science of producing from original matter those grand agencies of modern science, so much used now in "war and peace—dynamite, nitro glycerine, and giant powder, and fulminates of gold, silver, and mercury. The demand for these articles in the past few years has been much greater than the production, and that the demand will increase each year there cannot be the least doubt, for we find the United States Government employing this agency in the removal of obstructions in various harbours, and Admiral Seymour is using it to blow up Egyptian forts at Alexandria. It was used to remove obstructions at Hell Gate, and there are other hell gates and hell holes and forts in other countries to be removed and blown up that are more injurious than those mentioned, hence the wisdom of having a number of trained young men to manufacture these dangerous materials. The directors take in students to the factory and teach them the wonders of science, and pay them while learning $5 per week. The expenses are met by the sale of the articles manufactured, and from subscriptions from the patrons of science.

FOUR SPURIOUS BABES.

The Remarkable Deception Practised by a Scheming Wife.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—A strange story of deception and wrong practised by a wellknown woman on her too confiding husband has just been made known in this city. The woman in the case is Kate Richardson, who, early in the decade, married Silas Richardson, now a resident of this city. Her victim is John Scarlett, of Wheeling, W. Va., who, until 1875, had fair prospects of becoming a wealthy and prominent man. In the winter of 1874-75 John Scarlett came to this city on business. Kate Richardson had left her husband's home after a short and stormy period of wedded life. Chance threw Scarlett in her way, and he, becoming infatuated with her, readily induced her to marry him. He took her to his home in Wheeling. About one year later she came to this city, and soon after her arrival, while stopping at the house of Mrs. Jacob Atkinson, she procured a newly born infant from the almshouse, with the intention of presenting it to her husband as her own, but the infant died. Soon afterward, however, she procured another infant, which she took to Wheeling and presented to her husband. Since then she procured two other babes and brought them to Wheeling, successfully enforcing her indulgent husband to find sustenance for three whose mothers were unknown. Only one of them survived. About one year ago Mrs. Scarlett returned to this city, but soon afterward returned to Wheeling, and is now living with her husband and her almshouse child.

AN infallible remedy for Fever and Ague is Ayer's Ague Cure. Wholly vegetable and containing no quinine, it is harmless and sure.

THE GENERALISSIMO.

Something About Wm. Booth, of the Salvation Army.

William Booth, generalissimo of the Salvation Army, is a middle-aged, gaunt, iron-grey man, with abrupt but cordial manners. During conversation he remains standing, or even walking up and down the room. His speech is pure, vigorous Saxon-English. His dark, earnest eyes have a half-weary expression, caused by overwork. His face, thin and pale, with an aquiline nose, is compared by many with both Loyola and Wesley. He was born at Nottingham, Eng., and educated himself in the midst of great difficulties. Early in his life, he began preaching as a Methodist minister, and remained at that work until he organized the now famous Salvation Army. He now receives and distributes, with absolute control, a revenue of $250,000 yearly; owns or rents, in his own name, 250 buildings in various parts of Great Britain, used as "stations"; and directs the labors of more than 15,000 itinerant preachers. The circulation of his official paper, the "War Cry," amounts to 250,000 copies. This position he has reached, not by the aid of, but in spite of the opposition of, the orthodox clergy, and consequently he is accustomed to say, sardonically: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is—the parson."

What Egypt Owes.

The Egyptian debt is an uncertain quantity, but most of the holders are citizens of France and Great Britain. Under an arrangement made with the khedive in 1879, controllers general for France and Great Britain practically took charge of the finances of the country. The revenue in 1878 was about $42,000,000, leaving a deficit of some $10,000,000. The debt proper is about $540,000,000, bearing 7 per cent., but the controllers arranged a scheme whereby it became nominally but about $300,000,000. Added to this was the personal debt of the khedive of that day, who had a passion for building palaces and harems. This was some $44,000,000 to secure which the khedive made over his private estates. The floating debt was about $25,000,000 in 1878, and has probably been increased. Egypt has a population of some five millions and a half. Seventy per cent of its foreign trade is with England.

Mrs. Langtry's Profits.

Mr. Labouchere, who ought to know, avers that Mrs. Langtry's net profits in a single week of her provincial tour amounted to over $7000. He does not say where this pretty piece of business was done. At Liverpool the net profit was $5500, which was thought wonderfully good. Last week Mrs. Langtry was playing at Hull, this week she is favoring Sheffield, and Nottingham is put down for the week following; after which she goes to Ireland, expecting perhaps to repeat with the collegiate youth of Dublin the enthusiastic experiences of Edinburgh university. And very likely she will, unless the perverse Celt should take it into his head to boycott the lily of Jersey because she has not a brogue. She has, however, such a gift of mimicry that within twenty-four hours after her arrival in Ireland she will probably have as pure an Irish accent as the veriest spalpeen in the gallery.

Liver Complaint.

Is rather an indefinate term, as comonly understood it consists of a torpid sluggish state of the liver, a deficiency or a superabundance of bile, or an alteration from its proper character. All disturbed action of the liver and biliary organs giving rise to pain, headache, weariness, dizziness, sick stomach, loss of appetite, bad bowels &c., are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. (7)

IT NEVER FAILS.

If all other remedies have failed to afford relief there is one that will never disappoint you, and that one is Syrup of Figs. The strong and the weak alike find it powerful for good; harmless, yet thorough, always giving strength to the bowels, so that regular habits may be formed and the system restored to a healths condition. Each bottle contains from twenty to thirty average doses, and the dollar and a quarter bottles more than double. For sale by Langley & Co., Druggist, Victoria. 6

THAT latest force or fluid, which permeates all matter, and which bears the conventional name of Electricity, is widely appreciated and recognized as a means of cure in various diseases. Its effects in the form of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil are shown by the relief of pain, both Neuralgiac and Rheumatic, as well as the throat and lungs, and in various other healing ways. 55

AMONG the most prevelant fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the Summar and Fall, such as cholera morbus, bilious colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remed Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand, for use in emergency. (8)

THE GENERAL DIRECTORY.—Canvassing work on the new Provincial Directory is nearly completed, and after Mr. Wm. Wolf, the general agent, returns from the East Coast compiling will commence; shortly after that the new work will make its appearance. *

Blank Book Manufactory and Book Bindery.

Paper ruled to any pattern. Tickets Receipts, etc., numbered and perforated. Charts and maps mounted. The best classes of modern machinery employed R. T. WILLIAMS, Government street, entrance through Messrs. Hibben & Co's store. *

IF mothers and nurses would cease giving opiates in the guise of Paregoric, and Cordials, and for children teething and subject to bowel complaints, give instead Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, the lives of many infants might be saved that are sacrificed to deadly drugs. (9)

JACOB H. BLOOMER, of Virgille, N. Y., writes:—"Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the Oil and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured. 54

V. EDMANSON of Bradford writes:—Burdock Blood Bitters is an excellent preparation, gives entire satisfaction, and sales increasing every day, it sells now on its merits:—Burdock Blood Bitters Cures Scrofula Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and Kidney complaints, in their worst form. (10)

I. F. SMITH, Druggist of Dunville, under date of June 1st. writes of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. "It sells immensely; in fact has the largest sale during the summer of any patent medicine in stock," and adds that he can heartily recommend it to the public. The above named remedy is nature's grand cure for Cholera, Dysentery and all summer complaints. (12)

Mr. R. W. Carmichael, Chemist and Druggist of Belleville, under date of May, 31st 1882, Writes as follows:—"Your Burdock Blood Bitters have a steady sale, are patronized by the best families here and surrounding country, and all attest to its virtues with unqualified satisfaction. (4)

AYER'S Ague Cure should be in every household in regions where Fever and Ague prevail. It should be taken as a preventive by every resident and traveller in malarial districts. *

FOR CRAMP AND PAIN IN THE STOMACH.—Take a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in hot, sweetened water, every half hour till relieved, bathing the stomach and bowels freely with the medicine at the same time. It never fails. *

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S

CHLORODYNE

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

Advice to Invalids—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hystoria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5th, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholerale Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s 6d and 11s each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Caution—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.

THE MISSING DISPATCH AND THE GOVERNMENT.

As an inquiry has been instituted, a controversy upon the subject of the missing press dispatch would be out of place now; but one cannot help remarking that the eagerness shown by the organ of the local grit government to smother an investigation and defend the operators (whose honor, as a body, has not been assailed) wears a very suspicious aspect. It is well understood that the government has an important interest in concealing the real political sentiments of the senior member elect for Yale, Mr. Semlin. When that gentleman was in the house he sat as a supporter of Mr. Walkem. In the recent election he should and was elected, in company with Mr. Mara and the late Mr. Bennett, as an opponent of Mr. Beaven. His opposition sentiments were clearly avowed at a meeting convened at Kamloops on or about the 10th July; and the same position was taken by every other candidate present at that meeting save Mr. McGirr. On or about that date a dispatch was sent to the telegraph office at Kamloops addressed to the press at Victoria. That dispatch never reached Victoria. Of this omission or suppression we complained, whereupon the Grit organ first asserted that there was no foundation for the complaint and then acknowledged (upon whose authority is at present unknown) that it is the practice of telegraph operators in this province, when the line has been down for some days, to destroy dispatches which meanwhile may accumulate at the offices! This amazing assertion by our contemporary is now attached to our complaint and forms part of it. It is scarcely necessary to say that under the laws of the Dominion the act of destroying or suppressing a dispatch is a criminal offence. The moment a dispatch is placed in the hands of an operator it becomes the property of the party to whom it is addressed and he is entitled to receive it. The operator or the government is merely the agent, not the owner of the telegram. The law is very clear on the subject. Now, a dispatch which we have an interest in was placed in the telegraph office at Kamloops on the 10th of July and we intend to recover it, or ascertain the reason why it has failed to come to hand. Is there anything improper in the adoption of such a course? The local government organ would not deny that there was any impropriety were it not for the fact that in the suppression of that particular dispatch it thinks it discerns a straw to which the government may cling until after the arrival of the distinguished guests from the East. Mr. Beaven argues in this strain: "Mr. Semlin was a supporter of Mr. Walkem, but he has been elected to oppose my government. If I can conceal Mr. Semlin's true sentiments for the present it will advantage me much, by allowing me to draw my salary for two or three months longer than by rights I should. Hence the feverish anxiety of the premier to excuse and palliate the suppression of the missing dispatch the publication of which will destroy the last hope he has of securing a supporter in the district of Yale.

THEATRICAL LICENCES.

A more inopportune time for an increase in the scale of licenses charged public amusements than the present could not have been selected. Within the next month the present theatre will be torn down as the land is needed for business purposes, and a company to build a new theatre was actually in course of formation when Councillor Wilson brought forward his by-law, the effect of which, if passed, will be to prevent theatrical and other organizations of the kind coming to Victoria and render the erection of a theatre unnecessary. The doubling of the licenses would mean to exact a higher rate than is collected by any other municipality on the continent; managers will give the town and province a wide berth; visitors will complain of a dearth of amusements; and the attractiveness of the place to travelers will be seriously detracted from. It is all very well to say that the by-law is intended to affect only companies of little merit; but who is to be the critic and where shall the line be drawn? If the council has erred in the past it has been in imposing too heavy a license on public amusements.

THE AMENDE.

The Colonist never intentionally does a man an injustice, and when it has been satisfactorily shown that a charge made through its columns is incorrect, it never hesitates to withdraw the same. Yesterday it was stated by us that Mr. Prevost, before obeying the warrant of two members to issue a writ for an election in Yale, had consulted the executive. Mr. Prevost has assured us that such was not the fact: that he did not refer the matter to the executive, but declined to act because he did not believe the act conferred upon him the power. With this assurance at hand we withdraw the statement made yesterday, and acquit the registrar of blame in the matter.

THE YALE WRIT.

The decision of Mr. Justice Gray places the sole responsibility of issuing a writ of election in the Yale vacancy case in the hands of his honor the lieutenant governor. The framers of the Constitution Act wisely anticipated the existence of a ministry that, rightly or wrongly, would hold on to power like grim death to a dying man. Therefore they placed the responsibility in the hands of the governor whose warrant the registrar of the Supreme Court is bound to obey.

(Per steamship G. W. Elder.)

A clergyman had been invited to fill a vacant pulpit, and was to preach his trial sermon in anticipation of a call. At the house of a leading member, where he stopped, his host said he hoped he would avoid saying anything in his sermon to offend the spiritualists, as there were many in the town who attended their church. Walking down street another leading light of the church was met who hoped he would not say anything to offend the Universalists, as many of them attended their church. Just as he was entering the pulpit one of the deacons button-holed him and said: "The largest liquor dealer in town is here in his pew, and as he is one of our best paying members I hope you will not find it necessary to refer to that business." The perplexed clergyman then inquired: "What shall I preach about?" "Oh," said the deacon, give it to the Jews; they haven't got a friend in town."

Mater: "So you enjoyed your walk, Katie! Did you go all that distance alone?" Daughter: "Oh, yes, mamma; quite alone." Beastly brother: "Then how was it, Kit, you took an umbrella and brought home a walking-stick?"

An old citizen in a country village, on having a subscription list handed to him towards purchasing a new hearse for the place, thus excused himself: "I paid $5 for a new hearse forty years ago, and me and my folks hain't had the benefit of it yet."

Lyman B. Goodhue, a St. Louis druggist, is white and his wife is black. He is suing for a divorce, not on account of the difference in color, but because she treats him cruelly. He bore with her lovingly, he says, as long as she struck him only with her open hand, but when she threatened his life he moved for a separation.

An Atlanta woman eloped from her husband. No trace was obtained of her for two months, although detectives were sent in all directions. It happened that the wife had been cultivating a water lily, and when she left she carried it with her. A few days ago an officer, who had been employed in the case, in passing a house in Atlanta, saw a water lily in the window. When he entered the house he was not much surprised to discover that the owner was the missing wife, who had never been absent from Atlanta. While her husband was searching elsewhere she remained quiet under his very eyes.

That was a novel plan adopted by a California farmer in Butte county the other day to secure help to harvest his crop. Being short of hands and unable to find men willing to work, he drove one of his header wagons into Chico and "shanghaied" all the old drunks he could find lying about. Those who were not sufficiently helpless to make their capture easy he supplied with liquor until the requisite condition of pliability was obtained, when he rolled them into the wagon. He took home a goodly number, but the result of his experiment is not yet known.

Thirty years ago, in a village near Philadelphia, arrangements were made for a wedding. The guests were invited, and the bride awaited the bridegroom, who never came. The girl, crazed by grief, became a harmless lunatic, and wanders through the rooms of her home, arrayed in her bridal finery, buoyed up with the hope that her lover will yet return. Burglars entered her house lately, and her quick ear detecting their steps, she stepped out on the staircase and greeted the thieves with the words: "I have been waiting all these years; I am ready; come on." The men looked at the ghostly figure, in its faded robes, standing with arms outstretched, and fled from the house.

Clark, a Chicago drunkard, beat his wife with his wooden leg, and was sent to gaol for ten days. The prison was crowded, and the convicts were doubled in the cells. Clark's companion was Prindell, a man verging on insanity. Clark related his crime to his companion, set the leg in the corner, went to sleep, and snored continuously. The snoring crazed Prindell, and he killed Clark with the wooden weapon.

REMOVAL OF SNAGS,

FRASER RIVER.

SEALED TENDERS, SUPERSCRIBED AS ABOVE and addressed to the undersigned, are invited to be delivered at this office by or before 4 p. m. of FRIDAY, the 15th September next, for the removal of Snags from the Channel of Fraser River, between Cheam and New Westminster. About 30 or 40 Snags will probably have to be removed.

The Snags to be removed will be pointed out to the Contractor by the Dominion Government Agent, or other agent of the Public Works Department, when the work is undertaken; and those Snags will have to be removed first which in the opinion of the said Agent most impede and endanger navigation.

The Snags in every case, including the portions thereof imbedded in the mud, are to be wholly removed, and either destroyed or transported to and made fast in such a position clear of the channel, as shall be considered satisfactory by the said Agent.

The whole work must be completed by the 15th December next.

The Tenderer is to state the rate per Snag for the removal of the whole number of Snags that may be required by the said Agent to be removed as above specified.

Payment will be made in three equal instalments proportionate to the progress of the work in the judgment of the said Agent.

Each Tender must be accompanied by an accepted Bank Cheque or Certificate of Deposit of the sum of $500, made payable to the order of the Dominion Government Agent, which will be forfeited if the Tenderer declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the Tender be not accepted the Cheque or Certificate will be returned.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

The Churches.

Rev. Mr. Gamble goes to New Westminster to occupy the pulpit of Rev. Mr. Jamieson to-morrow.

Rev. Dr. Cochrane will preach in Pandora street Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning at 11 a. m., and in St. Andrew's Church in the evening, when there will be no service in Pandora street Church.

POLICE COURT.—There were only two cases of drunkenness before the court this morning, the usual fine being inflicted in each.

OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

No. 8.

The Carriage and Wagon Shops.

It this branch of the industries of Victoria the writer was surprised to find that there was no establishment in the city devoted exclusively to fine carriage work, and he was told the reason of this was partly the compartive equality of the duty on the finished article and the raw materials in this line, much of which it was necessary to import, thus opening up considerable competition from Canada and the States. So far as could be ascertained there are only two carriage trimmers in Victoria. The business is therefore confined mostly to country work and vehicles required for business purposes in town.

McKENZIE & MESTON.

The carriage and wagon factory of Messrs. McKenzie & Meston, on Government street, consists of a carriage shop 40 ft. by 22 ft. and a blacksmith shop 30 ft. by 40 ft. adjoining, with a paint shop 35 ft. by 22 ft. The firm manufacture wagons and buggies of all descriptions together with ploughs and harrows and blacksmiths' work of all kinds, including horseshoeing. They usully keep a stock of vehicles on hand, and also a good assortment of materials. They employ six hands.

JAMES MILLAR.

Mr. James Millar's carriage, wagon and blacksmith shop is also on Government street, consisting of a blacksmith shop 40 ft. by 40 ft. and a carriage shop 18 ft. by 40 ft. He manufactures all kinds of wagons, buggies, ploughs, harrows, etc., and blacksmith work and horseshoeing are also branches of his business. He keeps a good stock of material, and five hands are employed.

CHARLES BALL.

Charles Ball's carriage, wagon and blacksmith shop is on Johnson street, the building being 90 ft. by 40 ft., with an adjoining carriage shed of nearly the same dimensions. Mr. Ball follows the usual branches of carriage and wagon building. He also makes ploughs and harrows and does horseshoeing and blacksmith's work of all kinds. He has an assortment of common carts, express wagons and other vehicles on hand, and usually employs five hands.

WILLIAM GRIMM.

Mr. Grimm's premises on Johnson street consist of a wareroom, carriage shop and blacksmith's shop, each 35 ft. by 60 ft., with a paint shop on the second flat. Mr. Grimm has every convenience for the business of carriage and wagon building, blacksmithing and horseshoeing. He keeps a good stock of materials and is prepared for any kind of work in the carriage or wagon line, and also in ploughs, harrows, etc. He usually employs six hands.

GILBERT TOMPKINS.

Mr. Gilbert Tompkins' carriage and wagon shop is situated upon the corner of Johnson and Douglas streets. The carriage shop and paint shop are each 30 ft. by 60 ft., and the blacksmith shop on Douglas street 30 ft. by 80 ft. Mr. Tompkins manufactures carriages and wagons, ploughs and harrows, etc. He also does all kinds of blacksmith's work and horseshoeing, keeps a good stock of materials, and usually employs four hands.

F. K. WINCH.

This shop stands on Johnson street near Bunster's Brewery. A very fine class of buggy and carriage, as well as of the coarser description of work, is executed here. The shop is commodious and a number of new buggies, wagonettes, etc, are underweigh.

Nanaimo.

(Free Press.)

R. Wingate & Co., of California, have purchased from Mr. Jos. Westwood and Mrs. Fanny Westwood 600 acres of what is known as the Westwood estate, in the valley of the Millstream, situated between the South Wellington property and the property of Messrs. Sabiston and Horne. The purchase price is $150,000, and embraces the land and mineral in the entire 600 acres, with the exception Mr. Westwood retains the surface right to fifty acres. The purchasers have prospected the ground, had levels run to salt water, and had soundings made in this harbor in the vicinity of Carpenter's wharf. It is understood that Messrs. Wingate & Co. wil at once proceed to open up and develop the valuable property they have just acquired.

On Saturday evening the Wellington brass band serenaded D. W. Gordon, Esq., the member elect for Vancouver District, at his residence on Prideau street. Mr. Gordon briefly replied to the compliment paid him.

A Chinaman named Ah Hoe had his bockbone dislocated at the Chase River mine on Saturday morning. The spinal cord was not severed, and Dr. Cluness, colliery surgeon, says the Mongolian will likely recover.

B. C. DIRECTORY.

FROM YALE.—Steamer R. P. Rithet arrived at 9 o'clock last evening from Yale which place she left at 3 a. m. The steamer Pacific Slope got aground on Union Bar, near Hope, on Thursday, and the Rithet spent about four hours endeavoring to tow her off. Later in the day the Wm. Irving succeeded in getting her afloat. The Rithet had considerable freight consisting of furs, wool and shingles, a very large passenger list, over 70 in number, among whom was Mr. P. Dunlevy of Soda Creek. He reports crops in that section as being very good. Fifty acres of wheat had been cut and harvested before he left.

THE WAGON ROAD.—Passengers who have recently travelled over the great trunk road from Yale complain loudly of its condition in many places. But the worst feature of it is the necessity of ferrying over Anderson river at Boston Bar. In addition to road tolls, which are mercilessly collected, forwarders have to pay half a cent per lb. for getting goods over this small stream. The ferry at least ought to be maintained by the government till such time as a temporary bridge has been erected.

LECTURES.—A series of interesting illustrated lectures are announced for next and the succeeding week by Mr. F. L. Tuckfield.

The Yale Vacancy.

Mr. Justice Gray refused to grant a mandamus for an election in this district. His Lordship determined that after a general election and before the first meeting of the house the only power to direct an election in case of a vacancy was in the Lieutenant-Governor. The right of two members to require by warrant the issue of a writ was confined to vacancies occurring after the first meeting of the house. The statute, though in terms giving two members the right to require an election when there was no Speaker, was subordinated to the right of the Governor to call the election when a vacancy happened after a general election and before the first meeting of the house. His Lordship remarked that the present law was passed before or without reference to the ordinances by which election petitions were to be tried before judges instead of by parliamentary committees. Under the old practice a member's seat could not be contested until the house met; hence the power to members to require an election to fill a vacancy could not arise until after the house itself had met. In the present instance, while the law had been altered in one respect, it had not been changed in the other. In other words, the election of any member may and must be challenged within a certain time; but the right to require an election to fill a vacancy has not been altered even though the seat of a member were secure. Reading the law with the explanations given by the learned judge we are glad to yield to judicial opinion; still, the principle for which we contend is right, viz.: there should be no delay in filling vacancies. An unprincipled and irresponsible ministry (for they are not supported by the popular voice) should not have it in their power to postpone an election, the result of which would be adverse to themselves. We note by the statute the discretion is with the governor, and not in the governor in council, to call the election, and we trust that the same will be called by his honor without delay.

CAUTION.

We beg to call the attention of the trade and the public to the well known quality and elegance of finish of our Gold Cases, guaranteed by us to be of eighteen karat Gold, U. S. Mint assay or of fourteen karat Gold, as may be stamped, and also to our mode of selling the same, charging only for the ACTUAL WEIGHT of the gold used, and not for the base metal comprised in springs, key pipes, filling of crown, etc. To illustrate which a tag accompanies each one of our Gold Cases, which plainly indicates not only the gross weight of the case, but also the NET weight of the gold.

In explanation of the above we desire to say that the old plan of charging for the gross weight of the case, as if it were all gold, worked well enough as long as the manufacturers were content with the amount of brass and steel actually required in its construction; but when the business was degraded into a contest as to who should get the most base metal into the least quantity of gold and call it a GOLD case, then the time came when, in the interest of dealers in American Watches, it became necessary to adopt a plan of selling, showing the buyer exactly how much GOLD each case contained.

To avoid imposition, purchasers of Waltham Watches will observe that every genuine watch, whether gold or silver, bears our trade mark on both case and movement. Gold cases are stamped "A. W. Co.," and guarantee certificates accompany them. Silver cases are stamped "A. M. Watch Co., Waltham, Mass., sterling silver," and are accompanied by guarantee certificates, signed R. E. Robbins, treasurer. The name "Waltham" is plainly engraved upon all movements, irrespective of either distinguishing marks. This caution is rendered necessary by reason of the fact that our cases are frequently separated from our movements, and put upon worthless movements of other makers and vice versa, thus affecting injuriously the performance of the watches, and vitiating our guarantee, which is intended to cover only our complete watches wholly made by us. It is necessary also, because it is so notorious as to be a public scandal that there is great fraud in the metal quality of both gold and silver cases as now generally sold. We have demonstrated by frequent assays that many gold and silver cases offered in the market are debased from 10 to 20 per cent. from the quality they assume to be. This is a fraud upon the purchaser, and accounts for the low price at which such cased watches have been sold.—AMERICAN WATCH COMPANY, Waltham, Mass. dw

The Esquimalt Election.

A petition by Mr. Michael Muir against the return of Mr. Hett and claiming the seat for Mr. Pooley, was presented on the 16th inst. Security for the respondent's costs was given yesterday. Mr. Hett has also been served with the petition, the complaint in which is that persons voted in his favor who were disqualified from voting. An application to take by commission the evidence of the collector of votes for Cariboo stands for 11 o'clock a. m. to-day.

FIRE ALARM. — Yesterday morning about 11 o,clock a fire alarm was sounded at the Tiger engine house for No. 3 ward, it being stated that the Union hook and ladder house on Government street was on fire. Both the Deluge and Tiger engines were soon on the spot, with the chief engineer and his assistant and a goodly number of firemen. The engines were halted on Government street, and hose was run down Fort street to the rear of the building, where smoke was actually seen rising round the hose tower. The expectant crowd, however, were surprised to see the hose suddenly bundled up. It appeared that some one, probably a boy, had forced the padlock off the door of the hose tower and lighted a fire under the boiler formerly used for heating oil for leather hose, some of the oil still being in it. There being no flue to the boiler, the smoke issued from the building and caused the alarm. The boiler will be removed.

THE MILITIA.—Lieut. Jones temporarily takes command of the battery while Capt. Dupont is acting deputy adjutant-general. This is all that was announced in the order read at the battery parade on Wednesday evening last. Capt. Dupont, therefore, has not been promoted, but remains acting D. A. G. in this province.

THE YALE ELECTION.—In this matter Mr. Justice Gray refused to compel the registrar to issue a new writ upon the requirement of two members of the assembly, holding that until the house had been formed the lieutenant-governor was the only functionary competent to compel the holding of the election.

GOLD QUARTZ JEWELRY, the latest novelty; also a fresh stock of Silver Jewelry at C. Redfern's, Government street. *

George Whitefield.

Last evening Rev. Dr. Cochrane delivered a lecture in Philharmonic Hall, his subject being "George Whitefield, the Prince of Preachers; with reminiscences of John and Charles Wesley." There was a large audience. The chair was occupied by His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, and upon the platform were the Rev. Messrs. Pollard, Jamieson, Beaven and Gamble. The Rev. Mr. Pollard opened with prayer.

His Honor in introducing the lecturer briefly spoke of the good object for which they had met, that of assisting Dr. Cochrane in carrying out the amalgamation of the different Presbyterian churches, which, he thought, should take place if it were possible, and the church become not only one in doctrine but in management. He was sure all would leave pleased with the evening's discourse.

Dr. Cochrane, after briefly thanking the lieutenant-governor, spoke of England in the time of Whitefield as being in a state of slumber as regarded spiritual matters, the dense darkness only being illuminated by a barren orthodoxy. He then rapidly traced the childhood and youth of Whitefield till he entered Pembroke college and his intimacy with John and Charles Wesley, from which sprung his anxiety for the ministry, to which, amid much misgiving, he was at last ordained. From this small band of students at Oxford, headed by Whitefield and the Wesleys, also originated the great sect of Methodism itself. The lecturer then illustrated the great power of Whitefield's preaching in England and his ultimate removal, on the invitation of the Wesleys, to Georgia, where his advent was fraught with such vital results, and the same evidences of power produced as great a spiritual awakening as they had done in England. He then referred to Princeton college, New Jersey, which was founded by Whitefield and the Wesleys, and the revival of Christianity connected with it. He thought, however, Whitefield's settlement in Georgia was a blunder, as such a man ought to have been confined to no one church, as Whitefield was simply an orator and not an administrator, and ultimately incurred great pecuniary embarrassment in his efforts to sustain an orphan's home. The lecturer next spoke of the marriage of Whitefield which was not altogether a congenial one; he also gave a sketch of John Wesley's courtship, this part of the subject much amusing the audience. Whitefield, he said, crossed the ocean 18 times and preached 18,000 sermons to audiences ranging from 20,000 to 60,000. His power was electric. The people followed him all day long, and he had been truly called the apostle of the British empire. It was difficult, however, to analyse his power, and he could only give a faint idea of Whitefield's style of preaching (which would fail to do him justice.) The lecturers spoke of Whitefield's gradually sinking and death in 1770 and urged though his bones had almost mouldered away in Newburyport church, the power of his life remained. The lecturer was listened to with deep interest.

A vote of thanks to the reverend lecturer was then carried, and tendered by the lieut.-governor.

Another vote of thanks was also tendered to the lieut.-governor, after which the assembly was dismissed with a benediction.

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN NAME?—Two months ago a woman brought a child to one of the Anglican clergy in this city and asked him to christen it Mahomet. He refused on the ground that in no way could that be looked on as a Christian name. The mother went off in high dudgeon and tried one of the Roman Catholic clergy, with a similar result. Two Presbyterian ministers, one having a charge outside Toronto, acted in the same way. She returned yesterday to the first clergyman and substituted David for the objectionable first name, and departed happy in the attainment of her object. It appears that her husband, who is an agnostic, is a great admirer of the "Camel driver of Mecca," and had resolved on a new departure in the name line for his child. In the end, like a good husband, he gave in to his wife's request to have the styling of his young hopeful altered.—Toronto Globe.

DROWNED AT COWICHAN.—Peter Green, a workman employed at Sutton's mills, Cowichan, was drowned on Friday afternoon. An inquest was held by Mr. Fry, coroner, and the jury returned a verdict that deceased came to his death from accidental drowning. Deceased was from Montreal, the papers of which place are requested to notice his demise.

YALE COMMONS ELECTION. — Advices from this district indicate a large majority for Mr. Barnard on polling day. It is the opinion of many who are conversant with the feeling in the most populous sections that the opposing candidates will scarcely save their forfeit money.

LIBERAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The reception committees were at work yesterday and received a most liberal response; some heavy subscriptions were made on Wharf street.

A MODERN NEMESIS.

(London Truth.)

Mr. Claverton married his pretty wife with his eyes open, knowing that she was a notorious flirt, and was more than half-engaged to her cousin, Dick Alton, of the artillery. His friends had called him an old fool, and his enemies said he deserved his fate, for nobody doubted that marriage would prove an equivocal blessing to him. But Mr. Claverton showed himself equal to the situation, for in the earliest days of the honeymoon he succeeded in impressing upon his wife that, though nearly double her age, he was not to be trifled with, and intended to be master in his own house. Whether Mrs. Claverton took this wholesome lesson to heart, or whether she was prompted by laudable aspirations, it is certain that she became more sober and discreet in her conduct, and to all outward appearance developed into a devoted and attentive wife.

But unfortunately things were not as they seemed in the Claverton menage. Mr. Claverton regarded his wife with suspicious jealousy, and showed a disposition to be somewhat harsh and exacting. He was one of those men who will lock up a grievance in their bosoms and brood over it in secret until it is magnified into undue importance. If any one paid his wife the slightest attention he chafed and fretted himself into a fever, though he probably said nothing to her on the subject. But gradually he began to keep a strict watch upon her, to look askance at her private correspondence, or to be inquisitive when she went up to town for a day's shopping or to pay a visit. He had thought lightly enough of the rumors of his wife's love of admiration in the halcyon days of his courtship and honeymoon; but as soon as they were fairly launched into matrimony this feminine weakness troubled him very much indeed, and caused him to be haunted by dismal forebodings as to what it might lead to.

Mrs. Claverton, on her part, showed symptoms of rebellion at the restraint which her husband put upon her. She was not a strong-minded woman, and generally yielded to his wishes. But on several occasions she openly resented her husband's distrustful conduct, and Mr. Claverton instinctively felt that a serious quarrel might arise any day. He thought the momentous occasion had arrived when he intimated that her cousin, Dick Alton, came to the house too frequently, and requested her to ask him to discontinue his visits. But though he had nerved himself for the ordeal, Mr. Claverton was spared a domestic fracas upon this subject. His wife did not attempt to argue the point, but yielded with a sort of sullen surprise. From that moment, however, he fancied he perceived a marked change in his wife's manner; she had fits of abstraction, and went about her duties listlessly; and it dawned upon the afflicted husband that his own image had by no means effaced that of the old and constant admirer.

One evening Mr. Claverton, who was a government official of some standing, was detained late at the office, and finding he could not reach his suburban home in time for dinner, he turned into his club to take his meal there. A group of young fellows were talking in front of the fire in the smoking-room as he entered, and the hateful name of his wife's handsome cousin cropped up and attracted his attention.

"What! Dick Alton!" exclaimed one in accents of surprise. "Who saw him?"

"Braithwaite. He spoke to him just now at the station."

"Who has he gone off with?" resumed the questioner, in incredulous tones.

"With——."

Mr. Claverton strained his ears to catch the reply, but, unfortunately, his eager attitude was remarked by a prudent member of the party, who nudged the speaker, and the name was uttered in a whisper. Mr. Claverton felt embarrassed at having betrayed curiosity, the more especially as he did not care the least who Dick Alton had gone off with. He had heard, however, quite sufficient to put him in a good humor for the rest of the evening; for it was evident that his wife's lover had compromised himself with somebody, and would, therefore, probably disappear from the scene. The keen satisfaction which he experienced at this welcome intelligence gave him an excellent appetite for dinner and sent him home at a decently early hour in an amiable and conciliatory frame of mind.

But he received a rude shock when he reached his house and learned that his wife had gone out just before dinner and had not yet returned. The servants informed him that their mistress, upon receiving a telegram, had ordered the brougham and driven to the station, sending back a verbal message by the coachman to her husband that she would write. The coachman, on being interrogated, said he believed Mrs. Claverton mentioned that she was going up to town, but that her manner was so agitated and nervous that she hardly seemed conscious of what she was saying.

Mr. Claverton was struck dumb by this intelligence, and at once divined what had happened. The recollection of the conversation he had overheard at the club flashed upon him like a revelation. It was evidently not by a mere coincidence that his wife had disappeared suddenly and mysteriously the same afternoon that Dick Alton went off with—somebody; and he bitterly realized that he had been chuckling over an incident which involved disgrace and misery to himself. For a few moments he was paralyzed with dismay and astonishment. But his energetic nature soon began to assert itself. He went upstairs and packed a few clothes in a portmanteau; then with clenched teeth and throbbing heart he unlocked the mahogany case in which he kept his revolver and carefully loaded all the chambers. He told the servants he was going to join their mistress in town, and having fortified himself with a stiff glass of brandy, he caught the last train to the city.

His brain was in a whirl with furious excitement, and the only definite idea he had in his mind was a fixed determination to overtake the guilty pair. He did not pause to consider what he should do if he succeeded in this, but the presence of the revolver in his side pocket afforded him a savage satisfaction. On arriving at the London terminus he drove to Alton's club and ascertained from the hall porter that the captain had started for the continent by the evening mail. Mr. Claverton controlled his impatience as best he could till the next morning, when he followed in pursuit. Instinct, rather than reason, caused him to go straight to Paris, for it never occurred to him that the fugitives might have stopped short of the capital or branched off to Belgium. Guided by his knowledge of Dick Alton's habits he made inquiries at the more expensive hotels, and at Maurice's he obtained a clue. An English gentleman answering the runaway's description, and accompanied by a lady, had arrived that morning and just left; and, although they had given the names of Mr. and Mrs. Winter, Alton's personal appearance was sufficiently striking to be easily identified.

Mr. Claverton did not hesitate to continue the pursuit. He had worked himself into a state of frenzied activity, and was consumed with furious rage and jealousy. A burning thirst for revenge deprived him of his sober senses, and made him unmindful of everything but the immediate object he had in view. He devoted several days to tracking the fugitives from place to place with relentless and untiring perseverance, undaunted by failure, indifferent to discomfort and fatigue, and only spurred to fresh exertion when it became evident that Alton was endeavoring to evade him. In this desperate and exciting occupation Mr. Claverton spent more than a week; and though his fierce determination never wavered, he began to be conscious both of physical and mental prostration, which seriously interfered with his self-imposed task.

One afternoon Mr. Claverton found himself in the quaint old town of Mantes. He was there quite by chance, being on his way from Evreux, whither he thought he had succeeded in tracking the delinquents. Having to wait an hour in order to change trains at Mantes Junction, he strolled listlessly down the main street, and was walking along, brooding over his wrongs, with his eyes bent on the ground, when he suddenly heard a familiar voice, and looking up quickly he beheld handsome Dick Alton looking out of one of the windows of the principal hotel, smoking a cigar and conversing with some one inside the room.

Mr. Claverton could hardly believe his eyes; but fierce indignation and hatred soon overcame his astonishment. Alton's head was turned away from him, and Mr. Claverton crossed the road and entered the hotel without being noticed. Passing unceremoniously through the vestibule, he rushed up the stairs and made straight for the room which Alton occupied. Though his movements were rapid, his footsteps had evidently given warning of his approach, for, on flinging open the door, he only caught a glimpse of the skirt of a dress as the wearer disappeared into the adjoining room and left Alton alone.

Alton, who was visibly embarrassed, started and stared at Mr. Claverton with a puzzled expression as he entered.

"Mr. Claverton!" he exclaimed, making a step forward.

"Yes, sir," said the outraged husband, waving him back. "I have been seeking this interview some time."

"Indeed! Pray be seated," said Alton, recovering his coolness, and staring intently at his visitor.

Mr. Claverton dropped into a chair, partly from sheer weariness, and partly because, now that the supreme moment had come, he felt strangely at a loss what to say. He forgot all about the deadly weapon which he carried in his pocket, and was only conscious of keen and poignant emotion at the prospect of meeting his faithless wife face to face.

"Captain Alton," he said, as soon as he recovered his speech, "you must be aware of what has brought me here. You—you cannot deny that you have a certain lady with you."

Alton bowed rather defiantly, but said nothing.

"I have tracked you from place to place since you left England," continued Mr. Claverton, rather taken aback by the sang froid of the man who had wronged him. "I vowed that you should not escape me."

"Then you are the person who has been persistently dogging our footsteps!" exclaimed Alton suddenly, in a tone of astonishment.

"Yes, sir; who else should it be?" said Mr. Claverton, severely.

Before Alton could reply the door of communication with the adjoining room was thrown open, and a pretty girl made her appearance, looking pale and agitated. Mr. Claverton started violently at the apparition, and the room seemed to swim round him. He only just caught a glimpse of the lady's face, for Alton quickly interposed, and led her out gently but firmly; but that glance was sufficient to convey to his bewildered mind that Alton's companion was not Mrs. Claverton.

"My darling! Look up. It's all right. He is not your guardian. There has been some mistake," were the words that he grasped of the hurried dialogue which was going on in the next room; and the next moment Alton entered in great agitation, and rang a peal at the bell.

"Excuse me a moment, Mr. Claverton," he said, as he went out again, "my wife has fainted. You will find yesterday's Times on the table. It just arrived."

Mr. Claverton mechanically unfolded the newspaper and spread out the sheet before him. Overwhelmed by the intensity of his emotions, he was too agitated to read or think coherently; so he sat for several minutes in a dazed state, with his eyes fixed vacantly on a column of Police intelligence. By degrees he became conscious that his own name stared him in the face, and he read slowly the interesting item:

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET—ANOTHER MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—Mr. Wright, a solicitor, asked the Magistrate's permission to make a statement with reference to Mr. Spencer Claverton, who mysteriously disappeared from his home on the 20th inst., and has not yet been heard of. The missing gentleman left his residence at Sydenham suddenly on the evening of the day named, with the ostensible object of joining his wife, who had been summoned to the deathbed of her mother in London. He never reached his destination, and, though every inquiry had been made, his relatives had not succeeded in tracing him. Mr. Claverton was described as a stout, middle-aged gentleman of medium height, with gray hair, inclined to baldness, and short, black whiskers. Mr. Wright added that his unfortunate client had been very strange and excited in his manner for some weeks previous to his disappearance, and there was reason to fear he had gone out of his mind. The Magistrate expressed his sympathy with the wife and relatives of the missing gentleman, and said that no doubt the press would notice the application.

INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES.

Progress of the Gathering at which British Columbia will be Fully Represented.

(London Times.)

The Prince of Wales presided over a general committee meeting of the Great International Fisheries Exhibition of London, 1883, at which were also present the Marquis of Exeter, Lord Abinger, Lord Walsingham, Sir Alexander Gordon, M. P., the Hon. A. T. Fitzmaurice, Sir John St. Aubyn, M. P., Mr. Edward Birkbeck, M. P., Mr. Edward Heneage, M. P., Mr. John Pender, M. P., Ald. Lawrence, M. P., Prof. Huxley, Col. J. C. D. Morrison, Mr. A. J. N. Chamberlain, Mr. W. Oldham Chambers, Mr. Henry Ffennell, Mr. John Tremanyne, Mr. C. Cecil Trevor, Gen. Scott and Gen. Sir Henry Norman.

Mr. Edward Birkbeck, M. P., chairman of the executive committee, said the report of his committee contained all the principal matters which they thought necessary to lay before the president and the general committee. He could add with pleasure that the Netherlands government had applied for 10,000 to 12,000 feet of space in one block. The committee desired to convey their deep regret at the retirement of Sir Brandreth Gibbs. He was authorized to state that this was entirely on account of ill-health, a cause which would he was sure add to the regret of all present, as it did to that of the members of the committee. In these circumstances the committee was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Mollett, who had had great experience in the great international exhibitions at Vienna and at Paris, and the professional assistance of General Scott in the laying out of the grounds. With reference to the measures that had been taken for promoting the holding of local meetings in different parts of the country, circular letters had been sent from the Lord Mayor of London to the mayors of the different towns inviting co-operation, and among other results an influential meeting would be held at Chester on Monday next, under the auspices of the Conservators of the River Dee Fishing Board, of which the Duke of Westminster is president, at which the executive committee would be represented by himself and other members. On this subject his Royal Highness, the president, remarked that he had found when he was at Yarmouth that the mayor was taking a lively interest in the matter, as he did in everything that affected the welfare of the fishermen and fisheries. Referring to the subject of prizes for methods of saving life at sea his Royal Highness said that the deep sea committee were engaged in considering how they should apply an offer from Mr. Edwards of prizes of £50 to £100 for this humane object. Generally reviewing the progress of the work of the committee the Prince of Wales said it was very gratifying to see that America had come forward so liberally with a vote of $10,000 and the allotment of a special fishery steamer to the use of the exhibitors, which his Royal Highness had no doubt would be on view in the Thames during the exhibition. The step taken by the Netherlands government was equally gratifying. They had appointed a central committee, under the presidency of Count Charles de Bylandt, to work in correspondence with a committee in London, and when he turned to the colonies he found that Canada, New Zealand and New South Wales had already contributed to the fund, and no doubt many others would follow. His Royal Highness called particular attention to the special money prizes offered by public bodies and private individuals for inventions tending to promote the welfare of fishermen and fisheries, and for prize essays treating upon cognate subjects. The action of the local committees had been alluded to by the chairman, and the instance mentioned of the public meeting that was going to be held at Chester, and his Royal Highness mentioned in special illustration of this part of the subject the steps taken in Cornwall, where the committee was caring not only for the collection of a good number of interesting exhibits, but also providing for the expenses of the working fishermen who would visit the exhibition. This was certainly an example which deserved to meet with imitation. His Royal Highness in conclusion alluded to the satisfactory arrangements that had been made by the site committee, by which they had obtained the use of the Horticultural Garden, South Kensington, without absolutely disturbing the society's own enjoyment of the premises.

Among the most recent additions to the London Zoological Society's collection of living animals is a young male African elephant, which now occupies the stall in the elephant house lately vacated by Jumbo. "Jingo," as he has been named, is at present young in years and small in stature, being only 4 feet 2 inches in height, and weighing above 700 pounds. He is, however, without blemish or defect of any kind, and perfectly tame and gentle. In course of time it is hoped he may attain the full dimensions of his predecessor. Jingo was captured by Arabs in Upper Nubia about eighteen months ago, and is believed to be about three or four years of age.

Some queer complications grow out of the marriage of the Duke of Westminster. The Duke's daughter Beatrice was married to the eldest son of the late Lord Chesham, who has since succeeded to the title, and has borne him a son and heir. Now the Duke himself has married Katherine Caroline, Lord Chesham's sister. The Chesham boy, born in 1878, is the nephew of his new grandmother, who is his father's sister; consequently his grandfather is his uncle. From this it follows that his father, being his uncle's son, is his cousin, as is also his mother. But it must be remembered that, since his father and his mother are both his cousins he is his own second cousin. Again, his father, being his grandmother's brother, is his great-uncle, and his mother is his great-aunt.

AN honest medicine is the noblest work of man, and we can assure our readers that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is not only reliable, but is almost infallible to cure Cholera Morbus, Dysenter, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and the various Summer Complaints, whose attacks are often sudden and fatal. IT is generally conceded that the majority of diseases are accompanied by faulty digestion. No remedy has before been discovered which has so beneficial an influence as Fellows Syrup of Hypophosphites.

I have derived much benefit from using Fellows' Hypophosphites in chronic constipation.—John B. Moore, Forest City, Montana. *

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUDGES OF THE Court of Queen's Bench in Equity.

The Bill of Complaint of Allan Macdonald, of the City of Winnipeg in the County of Selkirk, Master of the Court of Queen's Bench for the Province of Manitoba,

SHEWETH:

1. That under and by virtue of an Indenture dated the Second day of December, One thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, and made between the above named Albert Bray, of the township of Plympton in the County of Selkirk, Farmer, and the plaintiff; the plaintiff is mortgagee of certain freehold property therein comprised, being All and Singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate lying and being in the said County of Selkirk and, being composed of the north half of section Nineteen of township number Ten in Range Five east of the principal meridian in the Province of Manitoba containing three hundred and twenty acres, more or less, for securing payment of the sum of six hundred and ninety-five dollars and interest, which the said defendant by said indenture covenanted to pay to the plaintiff.

2. The time for payment of said mortgage has elapsed and there has been nothing paid on account of either principal or interest.

3. There is now due on said mortgage for principal the sum of six hundred and ninety-five dollars and for interest the sum of one hundred and eighty-eight dollars and eighty cents.

4. The plaintiff has not been in occupation of the said lands or any part thereof, nor in receipt of the rents and profits thereof nor any part thereof.

5. The Defendant is now in possession of the said lands, the immediate possession of which the plaintiff claims by reason of such default as aforesaid.

6 The Defendant is entitled to the equity of redemption in said lands.

THE PLAINTIFF THEREFORE PRAYS:

1. That the Defendant may be ordered to pay to the Plaintiff the said mortgage debt and interest, together with the costs of this suit.

2 That a day may be appointed by this Honorable Court for the defendant to redeem the plaintiff, and that in default thereof the said lands may be ordered sold and the proceeds applied in payment of the plaintiff's claim and costs, and that in case the same should be insufficient for that purpose that the defendant may be ordered to pay forthwith to the Plaintiff the amount of such deficiency.

3. That the defendant may be ordered to deliver up forthwith immediate possession of the said lands to the plaintiff.

4. That for the purposes aforesaid all proper directions may be given and accounts taken.

5. That your complainant may have such further and other relief as the nature of the case may require and to this Honorable Court shall seem meet.

And the plaintiff will ever pray.

BILL OF COMPLAINT.

NOTICE TO THE DEFENDANT WITHIN NAMED. Your answer is to be filed at the office of the Clerk of Records, and writs at the Court House in the City of Winnipeg. You are to answer or demur within twelve weeks from the 1st day of July, A. D. 1882.

If you fail to answer or demur within the time above limited, or if you answer admitting the execution of the mortgage and other facts stated in the Bill as entitling the Plaintiff to a Decree, you are to be subject to have a Decree or Order made against you forthwith thereafter, and if this notice is served upon you personally you will not be entitled to any further notice of the future proceedings in this cause.

NOTE.—This Bill is filed by Patrick Anderson Macdonald, of the City of Winnipeg, in the County of Selkirk, Solicitor for the above named Plaintiff.

And take Notice, That the Plaintiff claims that there is now due by you for principal money and interest the sum of eight hundred and eighty-three dollars and eighty cents, and that you are liable to be charged with this sum, with subsequent interest and costs, in and by the Decree to be drawn up, and that in default of payment thereof within six calendar months from the time of drawing up the Decree, your interest in the property may be sold, unless before the time allowed you by this notice for answering you file in the office above named a memorandum in writing signed by yourself or Solicitor to the following effect: "I dispute the amount claimed by the Plaintiff in this cause," in which case you will be notified of the time fixed for settling the amount due by you at least four days before the time to be so fixed, and the Plaintiff will be entitled to an order for the immediate delivery of possession of the mortgaged premises to him, and the Plaintiff will be entitled forthwith to execution against the goods and lands of you, Albert Bray, to recover payment of the amount due by you.
